Powderpuff game kicks off 1976 Homecoming events

The kickoff of the first girls' powerpuff football game started the 1976 Homecoming, Life is a Carnival. The sophomores and juniors got two early spirit points each with a victory over the freshmen and seniors.

At the Stunt Show, which was won by the freshmen, senior Pam Wiser was crowned the Homecoming Queen. Floats, cheerleaders, the band and others paraded down the white-washed streets of Wauconda early Saturday morning. Spirit was high after all three football teams beat Grant, and the freshmen were declared the spirit point winners.

The dance brought Homecoming to a close that night.

Student Council holds exchange with Jacobs

For the first time, Student Council took part in an exchange with another school this year.

While WHS students spent the day at Jacobs High School, four Jacobs students toured and attended clsses here.

Student Council became a money-lender in 1977, loaning $400 to the Junior Class and another $400 to AFS.

Minor revisions were made to the council's constitution and the Shamrocks Against Dystrophy Drive and all the Homecoming events of "Life as a Carnival" were again run by this group.

Student Council's sponsor this year was Mr. Jerry Rankin.

Ghost haunts castle in Drama Club play

THE CANTERVILLE GHOST, directed by Mr. Tom Dawson, was Drama Club's fall production.

Presented on Oct. 29 and 30 and Nov. 5 and 6, it appropriately concerned a ghost, Sir Simon, who had been forced to haunt Canterville Manor for 300 years because he had killed his wife. A visiting American girl helps Sir Simon to finally be able to rest.

Serving as assistant directors and understudies were freshman Margaret Eagan and juniors Audrey Howard and Donna Quasthoff.

RIGHT . . . Giggling gleefully, the twins, Marlyn and Mirium (junior Janis Hoffman), contemplate the possibilities of having a real, live ghost in their home.

TOP MIDDLE . . . "But I locked the door last night," Mrs. Umney tells Mr. Otis and Lord Canterville (senior Norbert Buko) at breakfast as they wonder where Virginia has disappeared during the night.

MIDDLE . . . A worried family is joined by Lord Canterville, Sir Simon and Mrs. Umney in questioning Virginia when she unexpectedly reappears from the world behind the castle wall.

LEFT . . . Loud crashing noises made by Sir Simon cause Mrs. Umney to faint. Desperately Virginia, the twins and their mother try to revive her.

TOP CENTER . . . After four or five vodka stingers, Mrs. Muriel Tate (sophomore Birgit Almgren) isn't quite so hesitant about being in a hotel room with her former boyfriend (senior Phil Whipple), who is now a famous Hollywood producer.
ABOVE . . . After 17 years, one of producer Jesse Kiplinger's dreams comes true, as he finally kisses his old sweetheart Muriel again.
ABOVE RIGHT . . . Roy Hubley (Mr. Joe Fielding) and his wife Norma (senior Mari Weiss) are pleased and relieved when their daughter Mimsie (freshman Stephanie Nibbio) finally comes out of the bathroom just in time to attend her own wedding.
RIGHT . . . Roy Hubley finally gives in to the inevitable and asks Mimsie's fiance, Borden Eisler (freshman Scott Glennon), for help in enticing her out of the bathroom.

Three plays and two inductions top Thespian/Drama Club year

A three-production schedule gave Drama Club members and Thespians little time to rest this year.

As soon as the set had been struck from their children's play, THE CANTERVILLE GHOST, try-outs were underway for PLAZA SUITE, which was rapidly followed by FEIFFER'S PEOPLE.

Because Thespian inductees were chosen in both spring and fall this year, more Drama Club members had a chance for that theatrical honor.

PLAZA SUITE, Drama Club's winter production, consisted of two separate acts, whose only link was that they were set in the same hotel suite.

In Act I, a Hollywood producer arranges a meeting with his former high school girl friend from Tenafly, New Jersey. Now a housewife, she is nervous about being in the same room with him, and neither of the two communicates well with the other.

A reluctant bride, in Act II, locks herself in the suite's bathroom on her wedding day and must be coaxed out by her distraught parents.

'Feiffer's:' first for Commons

This year's final drama production, FEIFFER'S PEOPLE, was the first ever to be presented in the Warfield Commons.

The play, a series of short scenes, dealt with the day-to-day problems of existence--from male-female relationships to coping with the bomb and rocket diplomacy.

Enjoyable for both the cast and the audience, the show gave playgoers the chance to have a good laugh, and also to think seriously, if they wanted.

Thirty-four upperclassmen this year met the standards for character and academics necessary for admission to the National Honor Society; induction ceremonies were held on Nov. 8.

AFS brings Mileide from Brazil

Over a thousand American students had the chance to meet a Brazilian teenager this year, thanks to Wauconda's American Field Service (AFS), which brought Mileide Magalhaes to WHS.

Mileide, who lived with the family of senior Kim and sophomore Patty Mitchell, proved an asset to the volleyball team, which voted her most valuable player.

AFS also sent senior Lori Carlson to Bangkok, Thailand, for three months last summer. She attended a Catholic convent and learned to eat lots of rice and seafood.

In March, AFS sponsored a weekend for Chicago area foreign students. They stayed in Wauconda homes and attended WHS.

Yearbook adds 4-color cover

A four-color cover and extensive artwork and graphics on inside pages make this year's yearbook unique.

Despite having a small staff that became smaller as the year progressed, dedicated students fought deadlines and problems of missing pictures, unworkable layouts and difficult copy. A few masochists and drop-ins even worked into June to polish off the last details needed to finally produce this book.

'Bugle' wins first place in all-county competition

Front page news for "Bugle" staffers was winning a county-wide newspaper contest.

The newspaper topped others from larger schools, such as Mundelein, Waukegan and Libertyville, to place first in a contest sponsored by the "Herald" newspapers.

Ditto-sniffing and their mascot ant's death were featured in the April Fool's issue.

Sluggish and congenial when no deadline threatened, the "Bunglers" snapped into relentless action before each issue.

One of the active groups this year was the Language Club, which kept busy with parties, crafts and sales of members' handiwork.

The Christmas party this year was expanded to include a foreign dinner, cooked in the cafeteria.

Before Christmas, students made "ojos de Dios," Spanish tree ornaments, and sold them. Candy and cookies were sold throughout the year.

Math club visits UICC, prepares for contest

New to WHS this year was the Math Club, which was formed by interested students.

The club met weekly at times to discuss future plans, work on math problems and listen to presentations.

Activities of the group included preparation for a nationwide math contest and a field trip to a math day at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle campus. Math Club members also saw a presentation about surveying by a licensed professional.

Cold winter thrills skiers and doesn't slow FHA

A bitter winter was a hassle for most students, but kept Ski Club members happy because it preserved snow on the slopes.

Room, director new for chorus

The choruses this year had two new features, a new room and a new director, Mr. Paul Pyle.

In addition to the fifth and sixth hour choruses, Mr. Pyle formed two new groups, the WAVE (formerly Swing Choir) and Madrigals, which were later merged into the Second Stage.

Highlighting the year were a Spring Spectacular, which included two complete shows of the choruses singing and dancing to popular numbers, and a trip to the festival in Lake Zurich for 28 choral students. Later, most chorus members went to music contests.

Pom-pon squad adds more girls between seasons

Ten girls started the year as members of the pom-pon squad, but fifteen were on it at the year's end.

A special try-out was held this year for the first time between football and basketball seasons to enlarge the squad.

The girls did a black-light routine at the Stunt Show and performed the school song in clown uniforms during the Homecoming pep rally.

Throughout football and basketball seasons, the squad created and danced routines at the games' halftimes.

Fund-raising projects this year included selling turquoise jewelry, which netted almost $400, candy and ice scrapers.

Also new this year were two alternates for the squad and an in-school sponsor, Miss Carol Schappert.

FAR RIGHT...During the band's trip to Florida, most of anyone's time at a hotel was spent in its pool. Here, sophomore Kathy Wisniewski hauls sophomore Pat Mitchell into the water with her.

Relaxed riding to sunny Florida in air-conditioned comfort is what band members expected as their summer trip began.

What they didn't expect was was being cramped into an ice-box for a long drive to never-ending rain.

But, it was a good trip and most everyone will remember it was fun and worthwhile.

The grand excursion began on June 20, 1976, with a day and a half trip by bus to Silver Springs, Florida. Band members received their first taste of the rainy weather they were to experience throughout the week as it rained before their Silver Springs concert. This stop also included a ride on a glass-bottomed boat.

The next day, the band played a concert at Sea World and then moved on to Disney World.

Marching at Disney World was postponed for a day because of lightning. Despite the wet weather, the band marched and played through the park the next day and then was free to enjoy the rides and attractions.

Most members slept through the tour of the Cape Kennedy space center the next day but were wide awake for the morning swim in the ocean the following day, which was the only day it didn't rain.

The final stop was a tour of St. Augustine, and then the trip home for 120 band members.

Pellant directs 19-band group

Band director Bill Pellant directed 19 bands in the National Anthem before a Chicago White Sox game on June 2.

The Sox game was the band's last outside activity. Others included a pops concert, hosting a junior high band contest, and participating in a birthday celebration for Fox River Valley Gardens.

Born this year was the Wauconda Unit Band Boosters, an organization to help all the district's bands raise money.

Prom guests find meaning of 'Together Once Again'

King Mark Svoboda and Queen Colleen Quick were "Together Once Again" as they reigned over the events of the 1977 Junior-Senior Prom, held at the Lake Geneva Playboy Club on May 14.

Before and after enjoying a dinner of prime rib or filet mignon, guests listened and danced to the music of Atlantic Mine. Inbetween dances, they ducked out onto one of the two balconies to rest and talk a bit while viewing the scenery.

At the end of the evening, the couples went home to grab a few hours of sleep before going to Prom picnics the next day.

Rushing record broken; team spirit rises in varsity gridders

What the varsity football team didn't have on the scoreboard was made up by what it did have in both attitude and spirit.

One contributing factor to the high morale was a two-day overnight held at the high school for all team members before the season started. Included in the overnight was swimming at Camp Duncan.

Much practice time this year was spent learning and working on different plays.

Several players had outstanding individual

Sophs viewed as 'potential;' meanwhile are winning team

"A lot of potential for the varsity team next year," is how one coach summed up the sophomore football team.

The sophs' final win-loss tally was 5-4 with a 3-2 conference record.

Three outstanding players helped lead the team in its winning ways. They were halfback Perry Lubera, quarterback Bill Torgesen and receiver Jeff Samuels.

Warren proved to be the most challenging opponent for the soph gridders, beating the Bulldogs as it did every team it met this year.

If this year's sophomore season is any indication, next year's varsity football team should be a winning one.

'Together' frosh team posts wins

Posting a winning season record is something the freshman football team has not done in a long time.

This year's frosh gridders did it, however.

Their 5-4 overall record is something that both the coaches and team members were proud of.

The most challenging contender for the team was Jacobs. The game was close, but the Bulldogs came away winners.

All in all, the season was a good one for this team which was once described as "a lot of good guys working together."

Cheerleaders sell candy to buy new sweaters for the varsity squad

Since one of the main goals of the cheerleaders this year was purchasing new sweaters for the varsity squad, all the girls worked together and sold candy.

During the football season, squads were larger than usual, varsity having 11 girls and the sophomores 13. Because of the larger groups, the girls were able to concentrate on more complicated mounts. Juniors only made up the varsity basketball squad this year.

Wrestling cheerleaders took a first in a cheerleading clinic sponsored by Warren. Their cheer was chosen by all the other cheerleaders in the conference to be the wrestling conference cheer. From this, the wrestling cheerleaders went on to cheer the boys to a conference championship.

As in other years, the girls did sideline and floor cheers and added to team spirit by activities like making breakout signs.

This was the last year that the squad were sponsored by Mrs. Judy Porten.

Duffers shows individual improvements; Kearney MVP

Although this year's golf team as a whole had a losing record, there were individual improvements all around.

Junior Todd Kearney led the team with an average of 47.3 strokes for 9 holes.

The team co-captain also had the best 9-hole round, 42, and won the Most Valuable Player award.

Junior Larry Felts scored 86 for the best 18-hole round.

The duffers' new coach for this year, Mr. Gary Rajkowski, worked with the team on individual improvements throughout the season.

He was pleased with progress this year, but hopes next year's team will win more.

Boys' varsity tennis finished its season with a 4-10 record, losing many matches which could have gone either way by scores of 2-3.

The team was not without good players, however.

Sophomore Chuck Lundgren played regularly on the varsity team and won the most improved award at the end of the season.

Conference champs send Roy Cardinal downstate

The excitement of the year's cross-country season can be summed up in one word: Downstate!

Senior Ray Cardinal, the record-breaking runner whose times in distance competitions have put Wauconda High School on the cross-country map, qualified for the state run and finished seventh. The official stopwatch indicated that it took him 14 minutes, 23 seconds to run the 3-mile course.

The varsity cross-country team as a whole had a very strong season. None of the conference teams could come near catching the winning combination of Ray, junior Dave Jensen, senior Mike Lyster, and senior Mike Reilly. Woodstock, a non-conference team, was the only team which defeated our harriers and the final overall team win-loss tally was 12-1.

One cross-country team member could find no better phrase than "damn good" to describe the season for the varsity runners. "Without Cardinal," he said, "we would have had a good year and might have finished about 4-2 in conference."

He also made some predictions for next year, saying that the varsity team will probably go through a transitionary year and be supported mainly by juniors Leroy Pugesek and Dave Jensen.

Enthusiasm earns coach's applause as goals for year are met by frosh

Team attitude and learning the game of basketball were Coach Rex Hester's goals for the freshmen team this year.

Although the team had a conference record of 1-9, the coaches were pleased with the team's progress. "They worked hard, were enthusiastic, and cooperated with each other and the coaches," stated Coach Hester.

Scott Brumm, who averaged 10-12 points a game, was the freshmen's high scorer. Dave Henkelman, Don Gick, Mike Mulle, and Conrad Riener were the team's most consistent players.

Coaches Hester and Taylor felt the team as a whole improved immensely this year.

gressiveness led to foul trouble.

The losing record this year will put no dampers on next year's team, however. This year's team consisted of four seniors and eight juniors. Next year's starting lineup will be made of players who spent much time this year playing. Coach Gary Rajkowski purposely worked this year's juniors so that next year's team will start with an advantage of experience.

Outstanding players on this year's squad included seniors Bill Gurl, John Kosmach and Dean A. Anderson. Dean was named All-conference, while John was cited by Coach Rajkowski as being the most consistent ball player all around.

Another special event the varsity cagers played in this year was a match-up between their team and the Sweet Sixteen girls' basketball team.

Despite handicaps placed on their players, the guys had no problems handing a defeat to the girls' team.

Bowlers end season with 1-4 record; plan for better next year

Although their season record was only 1-4, the bowling team is looking forward to a much stronger season next year when five of their top bowlers will be returning.

This year the team was led by sophomore Wendy Cox, whose average was 144, junior Peggy Arizzi, who had a high series of 459, and junior Debbie Francisco, who bowled a high game of 164.

The team placed third out of six teams at the district tournament.

Inexperienced gymnastics team captures title for conference

After a slow start, the gymnastics team finally pulled together after the Grayslake meet to bring home the conference championship.

With the help of Coach Rick Barry, the young and inexperienced team was undefeated in conference meets, 5-0, and had an over-all 6-2 record.

A problem for the team was finding the best line-up. That happened, Coach Barry said, after the team's high score of the season against Woodstock.

This is the team's third year in existence and its first for having an undefeated conference team and a winning record.

A school record was also broken when sophomore Laurie Nee received a score of 7.55 on the uneven parallel bars.

Voted as most valuable, hardest worker and most improved were Bernie Stendebach, Mary Jacoby and Toni Hoffman, respectively.

Two runners stand out; small squad over worked

Junior Pat Brown and sophomore Janet Maxson were two big names in girls' track this year.

Pat, who competed in the 50-yard dash downstate her freshman year, was a hopeful for the 100-yard dash finals this year. A bad start and thus a fourth place finish ended her fine season.

Even though this was her first year on the team, Janet did an excellent job by placing consistently in long-distance runs.

As a whole, the team simply lacked depth. Having to participate in four events left the girls little time to concentrate on their specialty events, despite their talents.

Understaffed track team sends miler downstate

Heralded for his cross-country showing downstate in the fall, senior Ray Cardinal continued to win fame with his fourth place finish in the mile at the state level during track season.

Ray's downstate time of 4:12.5 broke the previous school record set by Ray Lanners last year. The run also boosted Cardinal's chances to win the Dave Willoughby award, which was presented to him after a poll of all coaches determined him the winner.

Track this year was plagued with manpower problems, and distance runners ended up filling most vacancies. Of the 38 boys who appear in the team picture, only 20-25 finished the season as members. The rest either quit the team or were dismissed for disciplinary reasons.

One of the season's more memorable meets was at Carmel. The temperature plummeted to near 38 degrees and almost all events were held in a gusty snowstorm.

Hitting, pitching, effort, attitude score points for varsity nine

Above-average hitting and pitching, combined with hustle and a good attitude, led this year's varsity nine to a second-place finish.

The team ended up with an overall record of 15-10 and a 11-5 conference record and thus second place in conference standings.

Hot hitting and a tough defense were contributing factors to the Bulldogs' winning season. Team members who batted over .300 included senior Steve Valasek, junior Bob Geist, senior Pete Alfieri and sophomore Doug Mullaney with averages of .464, .400, .333 and .325 respectively.

Board receives new member and new room

April elections brought an end to 15 years on the District 118 school board for Mr. Thomas Reilly.

Reilly, who chose to retire rather than run again for the board, was replaced on it by newcomer Anthony Barnas.

A major reshuffle caused by the new addition turned one office into two and created a third this year.

Moved into a new section of the high school office were Mr. Norman West and Mr. Jack Rayburn.

A totally new District Administrative Office, including a board meeting room, was made next to the shop rooms, and Dr. Martin Zuckerman and Mr. Leonard Kocinski moved into it.

More board members than usual participated in this year's graduation. Four, including Reilly, Mr. Lloyd Scott, sr. and Mr. Burnell Russell, presented diplomas to their own children. The fourth, Mr. Kenneth Sorlie, gave his daughter, valedictorian Cris, a hug instead of the traditional handshake.

New rooms let music and art classes expand

Thanks to the new addition, the music department now has two new rooms, complete with offices, storage space and practice areas.

These rooms are large and built for acoustics. Also in the chorus room is a new piano.

Making jewelry this year was much easier than before since the art department now has a room for it. They also have a kiln room, office and storage.

A new clay mixer speeds up the process about 20 times. New tools are plentiful and the display case kept full of projects.

For the first time ever, band students have a full-time teacher at the high school.

Instead of going to and from the junior high, Mr. Bill Pellant stayed all day every day second semester, as he will continue to do in the future.

A new course was offered this year by the music department, music theory.

A new music teacher this year was choral director Paul Pyle, who started a point system for choral students' grades and began a more formal system for try-outs.

Consumer ed. class sponsors special night

"How can I stay on my budget and still eat healthfully?" "What should I look for in choosing an insurance company?"

These were some of the questions dealt with at the consumer education classes' first Consumer Ed. Night in May.

Other topics of discussion included the operation of the FDA, advertising's effects on consumers, energy conservation and a consumer's rights concerning his credit rating report.

According to Mr. Dave Burk, a second consumer Ed. Night is being planned for next February or March.

Lester Hill, a simulated two-branch business, was run again this year in office practice classes.

Sophomores try the upper level in social studies

A first this year in the Social Studies Department was allowing sophomores to sign up for courses that were traditionally open to only juniors and seniors.

Sophomores took advantage of this chance by enrolling in geography and world history, problems of democracy, U.S. government and psychology.

New courses offered included advanced psychology, Non-European history and current events.

The department's new teachers were Mr. Gary Rajkowski and Miss Carol Schappert.

Like last year, Mr. Terry Stevig's freshman anthropology classes participated in a dig near the Cook house in the fall.

In the spring, they repeated the primitive day, when they built shelters and ate steaks cooked on sticks.

MR. LEONARD SIATTA -- Social Studies Department Chairman; American Government, European World History, Problems of Democracy, U. S. History; Assistant Football Coach, Assistant Wrestling Coach.
MR. DAN OLSON -- Introductory Economics, U. S. History, Urban Geography; Freshman Baseball Coach.
MR. GARY D. RAJKOWSKI -- Anthropology, Introductory Economics, Current Affairs; Varsity Golf Coach, Varsity Basketball Coach.

Geometry classes attempt to prove 'pyramid power'

Pyramids were big this year in the math department, both literally and figuratively.

Some of Mr. Dan Thornton's geometry students built a large pyramid to "magic" proportions to sit under during class.

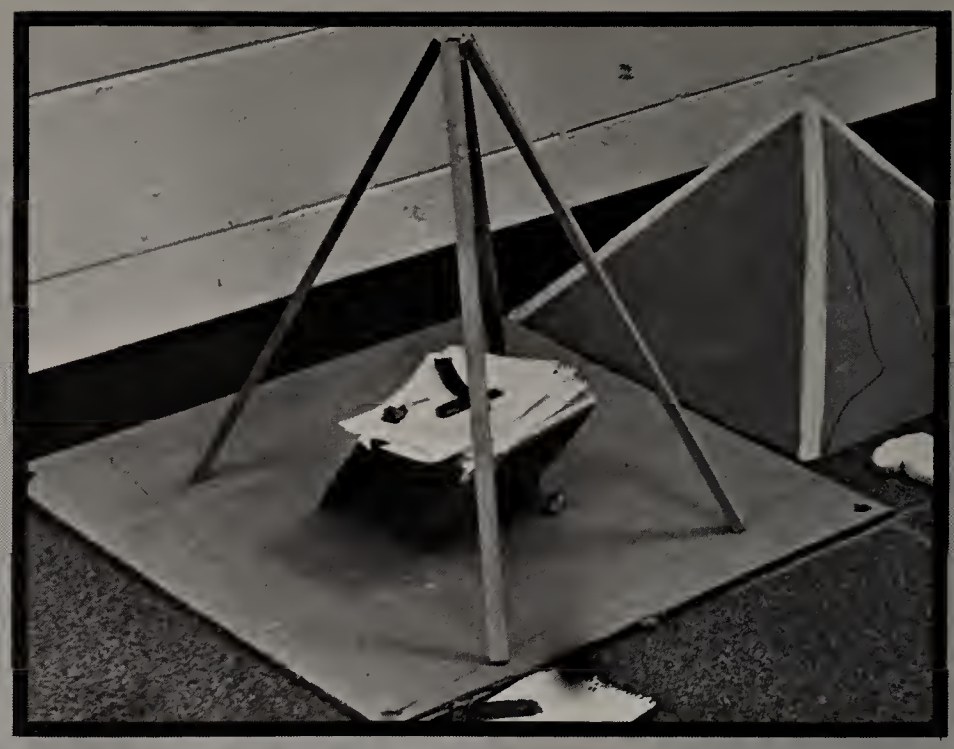
Other geometry students put bananas, cut flowers and bread slices under smaller models to see if pyramid power would preserve them better.

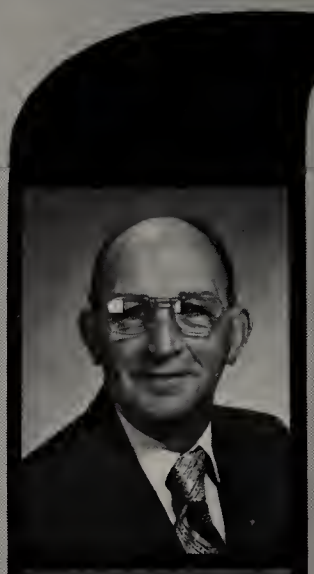
Independent studies for the math department were also undertaken by several students.

One scholar, for instance, developed a totally new proof of the Pythagorean theorem.

A first for Algebra II students this year was a chance to try student teaching. These juniors explained concepts to the Algebra I students.

Scores from the annual math contest showed improvement. Senior Ray Cardinal's 75 was double last year's high score.





MR. JOSEPH FIELDING -- Mathematics Department Chairman; Algebra II, Basic Mathematics, Plane and Solid Geometry.
MR. LEROY HAMPEL -- Algebra I & II, Basic Geometry, Probability & Trigonometry; Freshman Class Adviser.

Relative humidity vital to frosh, senior scientists

Relative humidity was a topic of importance for senior physics and freshman Planet Earth students this year.

As part of a two-week special project for Mr. Len Kocinski, assistant superintendent, the seniors took temperature readings of relative humidity in the gym every day.

The freshmen stepped outside during their class to make weather reports a daily activity.

In Mr. Rick Kannenberg's freshman chemistry class, students were allowed to do more experiments than usual, one a week.

Identifying unknowns in chemical solutions, creating carbon dioxide gas and learning the periodic table were junior chemistry activities. Juniors were also confused and challenged by the world of molecules, ions and sub-atomic particles.

Biology and advanced biology students studied life from the single cell up to complex animals and sometimes dissected to find inside information. One of their victims, as in other years, was a fetal pig.

MR. JIM HUTCHESON -- Biology, Human Physiology, Introductory Ecology; Cross-country Coach, Assistant Track Coach.

Home economics and shop classes decorate this year

Decorating was an activity in both home econimics and shop classes this year.

Architectural drafting students painted pictures of tools on the lab's walls; home catering students decorated cakes on request for almost any occasion.

A student enrolled in both independent living and general shop could have made his own t-shirt and then silk-screened an original design onto it.

Dream houses were imagined by by housing students, who furnished theirs, and by architectural drafting students, who designed theirs.

New to the home economics department this year was Mrs. Susan Maifield.

Permanents, tapes: part of revised health

Receiving first aid cards, getting permanents and making videotapes were among the activities of Mr. Gil Machacek's revised health classes this year.

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) used on people who have stopped breathing, and the "hug of life," used on people who are choking, were two safety skills learned.

The impact of Title IX was felt in physical education classes, where students were able to participate in co-ed classes, such as canoeing, basketball and gymnastics.

As in other years, sophomores and some upperclassmen waited for blue slips after taking their turns at angle parking and tree-dodging during behind-the-wheel classes.

Larger office reorganized and split into two parts

The entire office was reorganized this year and split into two parts in the new addition reshuffle.

After the attendance office was moved into the new section, the guidance department was able to move into its own section of the office.

Enrolling students in the area vocational center was a major feat for counselors.

Also, for the first time, a Guidance Resource Center was open for students' use.

Librarian's new problem: where to store materials

Where to put library materials instead of where to squeeze them in was a new problem this year for Mrs. Gwen Carey and Mr. Tony Rake.

The library's expanded facilities gave the librarians room for 1000 new books and plenty of storage space.

Students were able to sit in comfortable chairs or carrels in a library area twice its original size. Conference rooms and a classroom off the library gave entire classes or small groups room to work.

The addition also provided more space for special education classes in C-wing as well as an office area for Mrs. Ruth Crooks and a room for work program classes.

More space in the main office allowed Mrs. Laverne Potter to move into a nurse's office.

The last year was a good year for cafeteria director Marion Lageschulte and Mrs. Martha Gainer.

Both spent this year, their last before retirement, in a roomier cafeteria. A snack bar and extra storage had been added, as well as more seating room for students.

For custodians, the addition meant more rooms to clean and take care of.

Even during the day, buses took them on extra rides for field trips to museums, theatres and factories.

Speeches, silly string mark spirited graduation

Speeches and silly string, diplomas and popping corks marked the dignified yet noisy end of the Class of 1977's four years at WHS.

In her salutatory speech, Karen Voigt looked back on those years, remembering streakers, Prom junior year and football spirit.

The three most important days of a person's life are not his birth, marriage and death, but the day before, and the day of and the day after graduation, valedictorian Cris Sorlie explained in her speech.

This sixty-first commencement had more school board participation than than usual, with four board members, including Cris's father, presenting diplomas to their own children.

Break one-nine WHS students keep on truckin'

LOWER RIGHT...Math teacher Lee Hampel could not be found anywhere the day this stranger visited WHS to lecture students on the value of honesty.
UNDER THESE WORDS...Yes, fortunately for senior Jean Cooper and Lorna Rowland, a way was found to pull them off the ceiling.

ABOVE... The gym is used by one student as a place to study.
BELOW... "I really don't know if I want to part with this money," senior Charles Castle says as he is about to present a check to shrewd salesman senior Phil Whipple and become the owner of our school building.
BOTTOM... WHS walls sprouted decorations like this at Christmastime.

BELOW MIDDLE... "This darn epoxy." is what industrial arts teacher Tom Nance seems to be saying as he meshes his fingers together in an odd gesture.
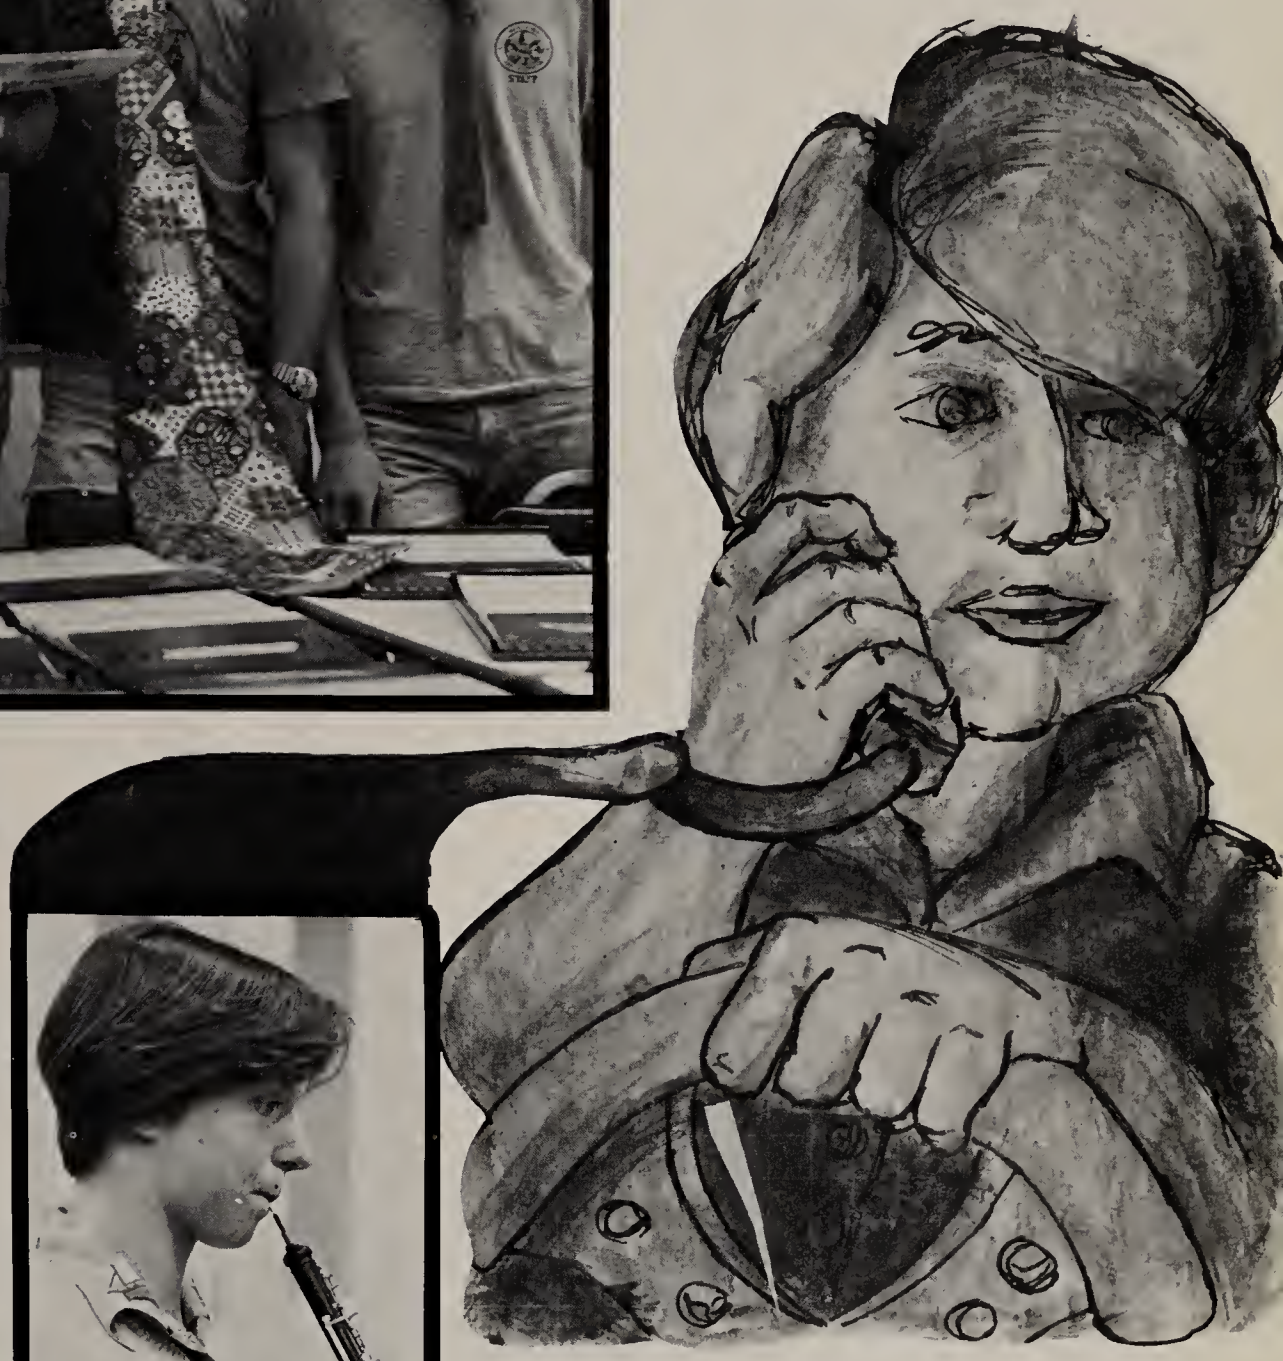
BOTTOM... Bernoulli fails again. According to math teacher Lee Hampel, that important air pressure principle was supposed to keep this kite in the air.

LEFT... A social studies teacher takes time out from putting final grades on report cards to pose for a picture with three senior friends. FROM LEFT are: Mr. Y Per Specs (alias Greg Brotzman), Mr. Len Siatta (alias social studies teacher), Mr. T. I. Long (alias Phil Whipple), and Der Pink Baron (alias Pete Clark). Photo courtesy of Jean Cooper.



That's a big 10-4, Wauconda . . .

FAR LEFT... This may seem like a rather blah routine bus picture, but stop and think about where the photographer must be shooting from on this bus going down the Eisenhower Expressway at 45 m. p. h.

LEFT... Junior Sue Pellant discovers she's being photographed while limbering up her oboe for band practice.

An end to dreams

Dreams are what this year's BULLDOG staff had plenty of. We saw some come true; we saw many left behind.

From the first, we dreamed about what this yearbook would become. We dreamed of more pages and more pictures, some in color.

One by one, dreams became goals, and some, realities. At the same time, we had to face facts: we only had so much money and time. Because our first dreams made us too heavy to fly across the canyons we crossed, we dropped some of them on the way.

Finally, a determined few made it. The final effort is not our dream book, but it was still well worth the effort.
